

Cambridge Assessment Admissions Testing Access Arrangements Guidance

All applications for Access Arrangements must be supported by medical evidence that meets the following criteria:

- It must be legible and written either in English or a language supplied with a translation authorised by a recognised medical practitioner.
- It must give a clear statement of the disability and make it clear how the disability justifies the Access Arrangement(s) requested.
- It must be an original document on headed paper or with an official stamp and bearing the name, relevant qualification(s) and signature of a recognised medical practitioner.
- If you are submitting an application for Access Arrangements for specific learning difficulties (e.g. dyslexia), additional criteria apply:
 - It must be in the form of a report prepared when you were aged 13 or older.
 - It must include details of the degree of disability.
 - It must include an assurance that the evidence of specific learning difficulties was obtained through the results of appropriate and recognised tests, and the tests used must be stated. The most universally applied tests are the battery of Wechsler tests, although other equally acceptable tests may be standard in some countries.
 - The report must be provided by a fully qualified educational, clinical or chartered psychologist, or other appropriately-qualified specialist assessor.
